The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

Inflation is Made in U.S.

President Gerald Ford's Whip Inflation Now idea had a small degree of success with the public and none at all with the government.

Government continued its profligate money ways — spending it as fast as they printed it.

It turned a profit at first for WIN button manufacturers but the buttons went out of fashion almost as quickly as the WIN idea was killed by some of the biggest producers of the nation's necessities.

In several instances, producers challenged the will of the people in their deadly battle against rising prices and falling employment.

Steel producers, for one, drew the wrath of the President when the public's voice rose clear in objection to a seven and a half per cent price increase.

Reluctantly, the big steel producers agreed to trim the increase fifteen per cent. It blunted the public outcry by making it look like a victory for the people. If it was it was so miniscule it appeared as a victory only to those who didn't put the figures on paper for examination.

Example: on a steel purchase that was formerly $1,000, the producers tacked on $75 to the price. But when producers "bowed" to the voice of the people and the President, they cut the "increase" by fifteen per cent. That cut their increase $11.25. But it left their increase at $63.75 instead of $75. If more rational guidelines had been set, steel producers probably would have been delighted to end up with an increase of $20-$25 per $1,000 but playing it as they did, producers came up with a $50 "greed factor' 'on each $1,000 in sales.

Milk producers are following the same ploy. It has been proven in courts that some of the nation's milk producers ve used their income to "influence" those in government w o control the price of their product. So it came as no surprise when the Department of Agriculture late last year approved an increase of six cents a half gallon on milk. Last week it was recommended that the increase be reduced by fifty per cent. That would raise the price of milk three cents a half gallon.

That must possess elements of greed because milk producers had such an over supply that they were dumping milk into the sewers last June. Raising the price is not the way to overcome overproduction but that is what producers demanded. Other evidence of milk control stupidity surfaced when the State of California dropped wholesale milk controls last fall. In many communities the price went down. Producers want controls only if they provide a bigger profit. Milk producers, it seems, want wealth security and want working people to pay for it.

Supreme Court judges last week tossed away their WIN buttons. U.S. Chief Justice Warren Burger, representing all federal judges asked for a hike in wages. The cost of milk, steel and sugar are costing the judges more these days. Supreme Court judges make $60,000 a year.

Is sugar manipulated? Of course!

That brings into focus the effect greed had on sugar prices. Sugar prices rose ten times over last year's prices when money-hungry commodity traders cornered the market on sugar and added to the distress of the nation by its hefty effect on inflation. But most thinking Americans bought less and the story is that sugar warehouses are bursting at the seams.

There have already been some reductions in prices as the movement of sugar from market shelves has slowed and prices have dropped a penny or two. If Americans can maintain a sugar abstinence for three or four months, prices will plummet are warehouses overfill. Then sugar manipulators will lose their shirts. A fitting outcome for an inflationary scheme.

Beef producers also had the idea of creating shortages in order to force prices up. Producers, late last summer, heeded stupid advice and killed off some herds of beef and buried them. One spokesman said it was done to dramatize fiscal unhappiness that had befallen America's beef barons. It created no sympathy at all from the family who has to struggle to pay for hamburger. Americans reduced beef consumption and the producers stopped losing so much because the consumer wasn't buying as much. Here, again, the producers demanded wealth security and they want it from the working man.

The oil threat is still with us. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger told the press last week that protection of a nation from industrial collapse is a proper use of force. Voices of elements of the liberal press became strident and tried to arm the populace that Kissinger had declared war. But ts revealed that some of our own oil people are culprits.

As it was reported by the Associated Press last week Mobil and Gulf "implicity threatened" to cut off oil for the nation's Anarctica and Turkey operations unless they were freed from the law requiring them to justify their prices.

U.S. Senator Henry M. Jackson felt called upon to describe the move as "indefensible and incredible" and "nothing short of blackmail." Others will call it disdain for the laws of the country — and greed.

Economists have long since shown that mid-East oil price increases should have resulted in "only a couple of pennies" at the nation's gas pumps. It has also been documented that "shortages" last year were at least partially created by American oil firms — storage tanks had been filled to overflowing and often tankers were lying off shore filled with oil with no storage tanks on shore available for it.

All of this while concerned Americans were traveling less, buying less, turning off electric lights, turning down the thermostats on home furnaces and otherwise depriving themselves in hopes that inflation and unemployment could somehow be brought under control.

They paid more for light, heat and power. They paid more for water, gasoline, beef, milk, eggs and services. There was no indication of revolt because each felt he was suffering with his fellow citizen and not because of him.

The country is suffering; no question about that. But before we go charging out accusing the rest of the world, let's examine those forces in our own country that have brought the economy into a traumatic imbalance.

Candidates' List Complete For Four School Races

A last-minute entry in the Lemon Grove school board-election was Fred E. Anderson, 47, who lists himself as a retired construction teamster of 1832 Englewood dr.

A retired construction teamster, he said, is an unemployed truck driver.

For qualifications, "Having put two childlren through school, and one left to go, I feel I know about some of the problems our children must face at times.

Fred E. Anderson

"I am chairman of the Lemon Grove Action Advisory Committee; a member of the Lemon Grove Planning Assn. and chairman and director of the newly formed Lemon Grove Crisis Cottage which is attuned to the needs of troubled people, young and old.

"If elected I will do my very best to do the best job possible and will donate any monies earned from this position to the Crisis Cottage.

"I will have a 24 hour phone service . . . I am a graduate with honors from the Dale Carnegie School of Human Relations and Motivations. I was a candidate for San Diego City Council in 1971."

In August 1971 he was arrested and jailed following a hassel with City of San Diego when he was charged with a violation of the zoning law regarding a car port he was building at his home in Lomita Village.

The same year he ran for San Diego City Council finishing fifth of eight contenders in City Council District 8. He was defeated in the primary.

Advisory Committee

As chairman of the Lemon Grove Advisory Committee he heads a committee of "about seven". He originated the commitee several years ago. His wife Angella is secretary. Dr. Peter Shea a Lemon Grove dentist; Darla Carlson and Edgar Carr are the non-executive members.

Soon after forming the Advisory Committee he was requested by Supervisor Dick Brown to cease representing himself as a local contact for Brown's office.

More recently he was chosen by an "executive committee" of "about five" to start and operate the Crisis Cottage at 3270 Main st. in a building loaned for the purpose without rent for six months by Dr. Shea. Dr. Shea owns the property.

Earlier in the week James V. Dorman and Henry Reinecke, Jr., both incumbents, filed for re-election. Dorman is a four year veteran having served as secretary, vice president and president. Reinecke is the current president of the school board with eight years of service.

Only two posts are open. The election is Tuesday, March 4.

La Mesa-Spring Valley

Additional candidates filed for the La Mesa-Spring Valley School District after this newspaper's deadline last week. The complete list is:

Suggestions for Grand Marshal are being sought by the group. Last year the marshal was Al Couppee, noted sports figure. Suggestions should be given to Glenda Jackson, office manager of the L.G. Chamber of Commerce at 469-9621.

Dick Brown Heads County Supervisors

The County Board of Supervisors this week greeted a new member as they chose officers and seated themselves for the coming year. The make-up looks like this:

Dick Brown, District 2, entering the third year of his four year term, was elected chairman of the board. His 1,100 square mile territory includes Lemon Grove-Spring Valley and the east county. He represents the county on the Comprehensive Planning organization and is author of the Integrated Planning Office concept which will be studied by the board this month.

Newly elected was Jim Bates, former San Diego City councilman who defeated Jim Bear for re-election. Ironically, it was Bates who managed Bear's campaign when Bear was first elected to the board. Bates represents District 4 .

Jack Walsh, a former San Diego City councilman, is starting the third year of his second term. Walsh replaced Brown on Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO)

Lou Conde, operator of a boat repair firm, is on the third year of his first term. He serves on the Coastal Commission. His district is no. 3.

Lee Taylor, a contractor, represents District 5 and is vice chairman. While all districts have approximately 330,000 population, Taylor's district is overwhelmingly huge. It reaches from Studio City to the Orange, San Bernardino, Riverside county boundaries and from the ocean to Imperial County. Taylor replaced Bear on LAFCO.

Can Parrot Talk Solve Theft Mystery?

The great parrot heist may never be solved.

But sheriff's deputies have high hopes — if they can locate the bird and get him to talk.

It was Monday morning when Pamela Jean Sharp, operator of La Pluma Pet Shop at 6939 Federal blvd., Lemon Grove was opening the shop when she noted the parrot and cage, valued at $500.00, were missing from its center display place in the shop. Further investigation revealed a cage of finches, valued at $300, had also been taken. The bad news was not over. $264 cash that had been left on the premises was also missing.

She gave officers enough information that may lead them to the birds and money.

200,000 New Applicants First Week

Extended Benefits Draw County's Growing Jobless

Lines are forming at San Diego's Employment Benefit Offices this week as President Ford's extended unemployment benefits program became effective.

But the funds will not trickle down to San Diego's growing jobless ranks until the week of January 23. It takes that long to process an application, according to Albert Mendoza, district administrator of Employment Development.

One of the first things a victim of unemployment needs to know is the answer to "where do I go?" Bureaucratically normal, Spring Valley residents go to El Cajon and Lemon Grove residents go to east San Diego. The El Cajon office is at 133 East Park, near Walker Scott Department Store. The east San Diego address is 4235 National ave.

Two bills became effective this week by which relief is provided jobless citizens.

Insured Claimants

One providing extra benefits to insured claimants, the other providing benefits to other jobless workers not eligible under the insurance program.

The Emergency Unemployment Compensation Act provides up to 13 weeks of additional unemployment insurance payments, making possible a maximum of 52 weeks payments to an insured jobseeker. The weekly benefits, ranging from $25 to $90, and the number of weeks benefits can be paid depend on the previous earnings of the claimant.

The other bill, the Emergency Jobs and Unemployment Assistance Act, provides for similar benefit payments, up to a maximum of 26 weeks, to unemployed workers not covered by the insurance program. For the most part, these would be agricultural workers, employees of state and local government and domestics.

Poppy Planting Planned For Spring Valley Hills

A 100-year poppy planting project will be started Friday in Spring Valley.

According to Herb Ketell, chairman of the S.V. Park Advisory.

On Saturday, at 10 a.m. approximately 15 women of the Spring Valley Woman's club and 25 Boy Scouts will assemble on the hill just east of Mt. Miguel High school to kick the project off.

Mrs. Herbert Ketell, chairman of the Woman's Club Community Improvement Committee said the initial planting will be 10 pounds of California poppy seed. The Scouts will rake the ground; the women will pull planting wagons loaded with a mixture of seed and sand, and more Scouts will rake soil over the mixture.

From the Mt. Miguel area the group moves to Monte Vista High school where the planting chore will be repeated on the hillside east of the school. If the poppies grow well, 100 pounds will be planted throughout the Valley including the hillside where the Otay Water Co. is located.

If the plants thrive Spring Valley will be a " beauty to behold," Mrs. Ketell said.

Three Failures Racked Up By Valley Car Thieves

A trio of attempted auto thefts in the Spring Valley area were reported to the sheriff's department as the week ended.

On Saturday, Paul Alan Syginst, a student, of 748 Felicita way, found that his 1966 Pontiac had been moved about a half block from where he had parked it the night before.

Ignition wires were pulled loose beneath the dash in an apparent attempt to start it, he told officers when they responded to his call at 7:45 a.m.

Alvin Leon Edrington, of 608 Galapago, told officers Saturday that his wife, Pamola, who was awakened about 5 a.m. by barking dogs saw her husband's pickup truck roll a little as she looked from the window to see what the dogs were barking about.

She screamed.

Two suspects jumped from the truck and fled. Inspection revealed the would-be thieves left a putty knife, pliers and a flashlight in the truck in their hurry to leave. Officers said entry had been made by opening the wing window with the putty knife. They had pulled loose the ignition wires in an attempt to "hot wire" the vehicle when Mrs. Errington screamed.

John E. Armstrong, of 9825 Huron said that his vehicle had been moved 40 yards early Saturday morning while he slept in his home. The ignition wires of his car had been ripped loose.

Freezer Parts Taken

Burger King, Lemon Grove's newest restaurant, had been in operation just a week when thieves decided to give it a try.

What they got was a box of freezer unit parts weighing about 200 pounds and 3x3x3 in size. It may have little value to those who stole it but it will cost Burger King about $1,800.00 to replace the equipment.

Plymouth Gone

Corral Ford, at 7220 Broadway, Lemon Grove, suffered another car theft Sunday. A thief removed bolts from the hasp of a gate protecting the parking lot and drove away a gold colored 1973 Plymouth Duster. A spokesman said the keys were in the car.

K Mart Loses Money

When two K-Mart clerks went to lunch Sunday they locked their cash registers and gave the key to their superior.

When they came back, a total of $194.50 had been removed from the registers by someone who used keys to do the job, according to Philip W. Young, K Mart assistant manager.

He also reported that the duplicate of the keys had been missing for more than a week but it is not known who had taken them.

Musical Loss

A snare drum and an AM-FM radio were taken from the rear seat of the locked, parked auto belonging to Steven L. Skalniak of 3827 Conrad st., Spring Valley.

Skalniak had left his car in the parking area of the apartment complex when he retired for the night. When he arose Sunday he found that the items had been stolen by someone who got into the locked car by forcing open a wind wing on the driver's side of the car.

Brown's IPO Concept Ready for Supervisors

Here is another installment of Supervisor Dick Brown's Integrated Planning Office proposal. The issue will be examined by the Board of Supervisors on January 21.

The material was organized by Brown's administrative assistant, Pam Engebretson, and handed to staff to study in November. The Board's decision on January 21 will be guided by what staff recommends.

The proposed revision of the planning process has been published in these columns because property owners will be affected by the Board's decision. It has been offered so that readers may know that a new way of property life for San Diegans may result if the proposal is adopted. Whether it will be good or bad is a matter residents must decide.

It should be noted that there has long been a need for integrating all planning in San Diego County. Some departments lack communication with others. The Board will decide whether IPO solves problems or creates them.

Readers having opinions may direct them to Supervisor Brown or to this newspaper.

Part 7

SANITATION AND FLOOD CONTROL

Growth and development bring a proportionate increase in the by-products of society — waste and refuse — and the means for their disposal must be planned concurrently with land use, transportation, public facilities and the environment.

Total planning must also consider the safety of individuals and the preservation of the land through protection of flood plains, watersheds and beaches.

Because the county cannot unilaterally plan for its sanitation and flood control systems, it must anticipate its needs well in advance to coordinate them with related special districts and other supporting agencies.

A lack of coordination in planning for sanitation services can cause the kind of problems similar to those evidenced recently in the Santee/Lakeside/Alpine area when development outpaced available sewer capacities.

Thus, a crucial link in the Integrated Planning Office should be the section devoted to planning systems for disposal of liquid and solid wastes, and preservation of flood plains, watersheds and beaches.

The decisions to be made on the size, location and timing of sanitation and flood control systems should be related to policies which intentionally consider a total development pattern.

Link Lacking

The existing Department of Sanitation and Flood Control, with a staff of well over 200, has no distinct link with other areas of long-range or systems-level planning.

Projections of future needs are considered within each division of the department and discussed at division head rap sessions.

There is cooperation with sanitation, water and flood control districts and zones, with the Comprehensive Planning Organization and the Regional Water Quality Control Board. But to date there has been little communication with the planning divisions of the county, although attempts are being made to improve coordination.

The liquid waste disposal system for the county should

'Churches Alive' Program Lives At Skyline Wesleyan Church

Outreach. Discovery. Growth. A layman's group in San Bernardino called "Churches Alive!" has incorporated these abstract ideas into a program of adult evangelism used in fifty California churches including Lemon Grove's Skyline Wesleyan Church.

Skyline Wesleyan, at 1345 Skyline dr., has adopted "Churches Alive!" into its own on-going ministry, and tailored it to meet the needs of the surrounding Lemon Grove community. About 120 persons are enrolled in the program.

The program has three levels of ministry.

"Outreach" is the one-to-one personal contact of the church members with their neighbors and friends.

"Discovery" is a six-week Bible indoctrination dealing with the basics of the Christian faith as explained by Rev. Rex Johnson. New "Discovery" discussion groups begin every three weeks and advanced training seminars are tlso available.

The third level involves "Growth Groups." These groups consist of 10-14 people and meet in members' homes. Twelve "Growth Groups" are now in existence and more are slated for the future.

A Periodical Conference is scheduled for February 26 through March 1. This four-day seminar will be led by Howard Ball, former "Campus Crusader for Christ" — turned "Churches Alive!" leader, and will cover the areas of Family Life, Time Management, and Leadership.

The sessions which will be open to the public, will be held in the Skyline Wesleyan Sanctuary. Times will be 7-9:30 p.m., Feb. 26-28 and 8:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. on March 1. Ten dollars covers the cost of the seminar and materials.

Adventists Honor Bicentennial With Beautification Plan

A "Four C's for Century III" bicentennial program outlined by the Youth Department of the Seventh-day Adventist Church has received commendation from many quarters, Conference P. R. Bureau reported.

The program received official recognition from the American Bicentennial Administration earlier this month. The "Four C's" are Community Beautification, Campus Beautification, Camp Beautification, and Character Beautification.

Leo Ranzolin, associate youth director for the denomination, explains that more than 200,000 Adventist youth will be involved in the program as well as adults.

The Community Beautification will stretch from the church itself to community parks, vacant lots, state parks and fair grounds, and even national parks, to keep them free from clutter.

Campus Beautification schedules an ecology day at least twice a year.

Camp Beautification in 1976 ties in with the church's golden anniversary of camping. Each of the 54 conferences in the United States owns and operates a youth camp. These at times serve inner-city children who are not members of the church as well as Adventist young people. Under the "Four C's" program those attending these camps will help to beautify them as well as the surrounding forests.

Regarding the fourth "C" Ranzolin says, "Pollution strikes not only the land, but also the body, mind, and the soul. America cannot be a better place to live until each American does his share individually to make himself free of all pollution.

"Under this 'C' the church will strengthen its battle against drugs, tobacco, alcohol, and immorality. It will step up its work with young people who are in trouble, and use all its facilities to fight character pollution."

Spanish Church Is Farias' Dream

It all started in a vacant lot in El Cajon.

Jesus Farias had a church service in that open field for a small group of Spanish-speaking people waiting to find his Lord. Out of those eight people grew the El Cajon Mexican Baptist Church, now the strongest congregation of its kind in the area.

Last year, the Rev. Mr. Farias was called to take charge of the Spanish Department at the Lemon Grove Baptist Church at Main and Burnell. The Department began with English lessons for Mexican families. Soon a congregation was formed.

This year, Farias sites as his goal forming either a mission or a church. To be established as a mission, the Spanish Department would have to be financed by the Lemon Grove Church congregation, but would be independently operated.

Once it is capable of full independence, the congregation will break away from the L.G. Baptist Church and take its full-fledged ministry to the Mexican population in Lemon Grove and adjacent areas. S.T.

L.G. Man Escapes Plane Crash Injury

A small aircraft, valued at $4,500, crashed near Julian, on Monday. The pilot, Jessie Jarui, 25, of Lemon Grove and his passenger, a San Diego woman, were not injured although the plane was destroyed.

Engine trouble forced Jarui to attempt an emergency landing on a road. The craft flipped over on its side during the landing.

Jarui and his companion were en route to Gillespie Field in El Cajon from Palm Springs.

Senior Center to Wage War on Idle Hours

Do you know where your grandmother is?

On the streets, with idle time on her hands, perfoming mischief? Although members of our elderly population rarely get into the trouble that idle youths do, their free and wasted time lies at the base of their problems.

The Spring Valley Senior Center realizes this, and it is their goal to offer meaningful activities to such "afflicted" people.

The center holds its first training session Friday at 10 a.m. at Atonement Lutheran Church, 3345 Sweetwater Springs rd.

Training sessions are opened to the public and deal with leadership in the areas of music, physical education, dance, and arts and crafts. The aim is to inform each participant of the duties and joys of volunteer work with this element of the community.

Three sessions are offered on successive Fridays with an additional Open House scheduled for January 31 to demonstrate how the center has developed and what activities are available.

Once the center opens, retired or elderly persons in search of recreation and activity will be welcomed to join.

In the planning stages is the use of a shuttle bus service for those who have no means of transportation.

The program is under the sponsorship of the Catholic Community Service, Grossmont, and five Spring Valley churches including Trinity Presbyterian, Atonement and Shepherd of the Valley Lutheran, Foothill Methodist, and Santa Sophia Catholic. S.T.

IRS TAX ANSWERS?

F. S. Schmidt, DISTRICT DIRECTOR, INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. When must I give my employees their W-2 forms?

A. Give your employees their Forms W-2, Wage and Tax Statements (or Social Security statements), for a calendar year, or any corrected statements made in the year, not later than January 31 of the following year. If someone leaves your employ before the end of the calendar year and you don't expect that employee to return to work within the calendar year, you must give a wage and tax statement to the employee not later than 30 days after you pay the final wages.

Q. Last summer I earned a few hundred dollars to cover some of my college expenses this semester. Do I have to file a tax return and report this income?

A. Single individuals who have $2,050 or more gross income for the year must file a return. Any individual who may be claimed as the dependent of another taxpayer must file a return if he or she had a gross income of $750 or more and received any unearned income during the year. Even if you did not make enough money this year to require you to file a return, you may have had income tax withheld from your pay. If so, you should file a return, claim your personal exemption and get your refund.

Q. A great-uncle of mine recently died, naming me executor of his estate. His will states I'll receive a small amount of cash. In addition, I will receive a fee for performing the executor's duties. Do I have to pay tax on this money?

A. Gifts, bequests or inheritances you receive are not income. But if property you receive in this manner later produces taxable income such as interest or dividends, that income is taxable to you. The fee you receive as executor must be included in your gross income, however.

Q. In addition to prescribing medicine and new eyeglasses to relieve my headaches, my doctor sent me to a clinic for acupuncture treatment. I know the drugs and eyeglasses are deductible medical expenses, but what about the acupuncture services?

A. Payments for acupuncture services qualify as deductible medical expenses.

CALPIRG Study Says FedMart Costs Less

FedMart continues to be the lowest priced supermarket in San Diego, according to the results of the latest CALPIRG food price survey, released Friday.

Continuing the highest priced status it established in August's survey, is Mayfair.

That chain, which stood at 14.5% higher than FedMart in the first CALPIRG survey, is now 8.1% higher, said Gail Hillebrand, coordinator of the survey.

Meat prices, which showed little change in the four months since the previous survey, are 18% lower than a year ago when they reached their all-time high.

Potatoes Up

Potato prices, which had soared to an average of $1.79 for a ten pound bag, dropped down to $.69, which is the lowest they've been since CALPIRG began its surveys. Sugar, on the other hand, has soared 60% in the four months between surveys; the rise over the past year is from $.69 to $2.53 — over 260% increase for a five pound bag.

Non-foods (such as soaps, detergents, and other non-consumables) rose 21% since November, 1973 and have climbed 3% over the last four months. But by far the largest increases over the past year have been in the categories of staples (principally because of an increase in sugar prices), bakery and cereals, and miscellaneous prepared foods (such as canned meats and soups and packaged cookies). Each has increased over 30% in the last year and a half.

"Even though prices keep going up," Hillebrand said, "we hope that through these surveys people will at least have a better idea of where they can get their best bargains."

She noted that price should not be the only criterion for determining where to shop. "Factors such as brand selection, meat and produce quality, store quality, store cleanliness, and the helpfulness of store personnel will also be important to many people," she added.

Not All Brands

"FedMart, for instance, while continually being lowest in our surveys, does not have the brand or size selection of other stores."

Alan Friedman, who computerized the December survey for CALPIRG and is now a volunteer for the student-run organization, noted that the price increases hurt people on low incomes the most. "Poor people have more to lose with inflationary food trends because they spend a higher proportion of their food budgets on food," he said.

After FedMart, the stores in order of rising prices were: Food Basket, Vons, Alpha Beta, Safeway, Big Bear, and Mayfair.

Copies of the latest CALPIRG survey are available free by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to CALPIRG, 621 4th ave., San Diego, CA. 92101.

HOME-COOKED This Week's RECIPE

Chicken in a Pot is One-Dish Meal

For the busy homemaker, or hostess in a hurry, nothing could make more sense than an all-in-one dish which is filled with all the ingredients of a many pot 'n pan menu. Energy-wise it's a good idea too, as one pot will conserve a lot of gas or electric burning. Beyond that, the piquant combination of poultry parts, carrots, onions, lima beans, celery and potatoes —all succulently seasoned by cranberry orange relish and rose wine — add up to a really delectable recipe.

Round out this taseful fare with a salad of crisp greens and a help-yourself pitcher brimful of cranberry juice cocktail with paper-thin orange slices floating in it.

CRANBERRY-ORANGE CHICKEN IN A POT
(Serves 8)

- 2 broiler-fryer chickens, about 2 pounds, cut-up
- Salt and pepper
- 1/3 cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup chopped onions
- 1/2 cup cranberry-orange relish (from 14-oz. jar)
- 2 cans (10½ oz. ea.) condensed chicken broth
- 1/2 cup rose wine
- 16 whole new potatoes, peeled
- 1 package (10 oz.) frozen lima beans
- 1 cup sliced celery
- 1 package (10 oz.) frozen whole carrots
- 2 tablespoons cornstarch mixed with 2 tablespoons water

Wash chicken and pat dry. Sprinkle pieces with salt and pepper. Brown chicken in butter in a large skillet. Remove pieces as they brown. Add cranberry-orange relish and onions to pan drippings and saute until onions are wilted. Add browned chicken, chicken broth and wine. Simmer for 20 minutes while covered. Add potatoes and limas. Simmer covered for another 20 minutes. Add celery and carrots. Remove chicken, potatoes and carots to a platter. Cover; cook 10 minutes. Blend cornstarch mixture into pan drippings. Stir until smooth and thickened. Spoon sauce over chicken and vegetables. Serve garnished with parsley.

Birth Rate Increase Seen

California's backward birth rate, last year the lowest since 1937, may be moving forward again, the state health director said recently.

The number of live births in 1974 is estiintaed at 305, 000, nearly 7,000 higher than in 1973, according to Dr. William Mayer. He is also the state registrar of vital statistics.

"This may be the turnaround in births we've been expecting for some time," Mayer said.

"Women in the child-bearing ages — principally those 18-25 — who were born during the baby boom of the 1950s could be the reason for the upsurge. There were more women in this age range in 1974 than ever before, and some must be having children."

TAKE FIVE

By John E. Wirges

It looks as if they're going to have to change his name. Catfish nothing. More like sucker. But, what can you expect from a damn Yankee fan.

Jim Hunter learned a lot from his former boss, Charles O. Finley. Not the least of which was how to deceive those with whom you talk business.

Finley outsmarted himself trying to save a buck and lost Hunter over a contract dispute. The Oakland "A's" loss kicked off what has to be the most expensive auction ever to collar talent for the National Pastime.

Hunter, the winningest moundsmith in the game over the last three years, asked for and received financial consideration approaching $4 million. And that, friend, buys a lot of corn bread.

Ray Kroc, the fiery old warhorse who bought the Padres on a whim and promised San Diego a winning team, came up with all the cash the deal needed to swing Hunter to Southern California.

On the face of it, things couldn't have been better. Hunter keeps saying as how the life style of his new team was every bit as important as the $4 million he was dickering for. And that puts San Diego one up on every team in the game with perhaps the only competition of any merit coming from Montreal.

(It's a fact that in Montreal it's against the law for an ugly girl to go downtown. Experts on the scene have never seen such a sight in the six years the Expos have been in the National League.)

Howsomever, Hunter, being a married man and all, didn't figure to head for sight-seeing up Canada way. Peter Bavasi, John McNamara and "Sailor Bill" Posedal carried tales of San Diego wonderment to Hunter's house and left a packet of pictures and other reminders of San Diego's pretty face.

On the issues, it was no contest. The last two teams still wooing him were said to be San Diego and New York. Our town against a national disgrace! If there is any city more unworthy of kind words than New York it is lost to memory. New York even makes Philidelphia look good.

Cops are murdered in pairs in New York. Life style, the oh so important item in Hunter's negotiation, is simply a matter of jungle survival along the Avenue of the Americas. The dull, dazed, vacant stare of abject hopelessness can be seen on the faces of people, old before their time, peering out of doorways where they huddle together for warmth against the bitter cold of the night and the world.

Not just a few old bums. There are hundreds. And a goodly share are women. They too, snarl and fight in a battle where only the strong survive. On the corners near Grand Central women stand guard on refuse cans hoping for a discarded newspaper.

They battle each other with the strongest winning the prize, a newspaper ground cover for her doorway flop. That's New York. That's the big city.

That's where Jim Hunter chose to play. "I've always been a Yankee fan," he smiled into TV cameras at his signing. No one knows why. Maybe he was dropped on his head when he was a little boy.

Perhaps Hunter will lead the Yankees back into titles and championships. He has the talent. But winning or losing, nobody outside of the Bronx ever likes the Yankees. That's the team you learn to hate, if you're normal.

But that's where Hunter wanted to play. He turned his back on San Diego and signed for (reportedly) a little less money. (When you're in the $4 million neighborhood, what's a few extra bucks.)

Any guy who thinks like that probably wouldn't fit in here anyway.

Star Hockey Goalie

Mariners Buy Wakely From Winnipeg Jets

The San Diego Mariners moved to strengthen their roster this week with the acquisition of two players plus the callup of two members of their Syracuse farm team.

The World Hockey Association Mariners purchased goaltender Ernie Wakely from the WHA Winnipeg Jets, traded winger Craig Reichmuth to league member Michigan for center Michael Rouleau, and sent for center-winger Tom Trevelyan and left winger Brian Bradley from Syracuse.

To make room for the additions, San Diego has sent wingers Doug Volmar and Kevin Devine, defenseman Dean Boylan and goalies Joe Junkin and Bob Blanchet to Syracuse.

Wakely, 34, could solve what has been a weak point in the Mariner lineup this season. He has been a three-year performer for Winnipeg and led the league in the 1972-73 playoffs with two shutouts. His 1974-75 statistics were 3-3 with a 2.70 goals average.

Topped NHL

Wakely was in the nets for the National League St. Louis Blues for three campaigns, from 1969-72, and topped the NHL in 1970 with a 2.11 average. He also had two brief appearances with the Montreal Canadiens and has a career goals against mark of 2.79 in the NHL.

Wakely holds the WHA record for longest shutout sequence, 157 minutes, 37 seconds, is second in career shutouts with six, his goals against average is third best this season, his 92.5 percentage of shots stopped is the league's best and his goals against frequency (number of shots taken for each goal allowed) of 13.31 is second best.

Rouleau was obtained in a straight player trade for Reichmuth. The 30-year-old center began this season with the Quebec Nordiques bus was traded to Michigan along with Alain Caron and Pierre Guite for Marc Tardif and Steve Sutherland in December.

88 Penalty Minutes

He has scored one goal and 10 assists and has 88 penalty minutes in 26 games prior to reporting to San Diego. In a November 7 game against San Diego, Rouleau, then with Quebec, was involved in a fight with Jamie Bateman and both were ejected from the contest. Rouleau also played against San Diego while with Michigan, December 10.

Trevelyan, 25, is a former Western League San Diego Gull who was assigned to Syracuse after a pre-season tryout. His two-year totals with the Gulls included 56 goals and 65 assists. In 28 games at Syracuse this season, he had registered 14 goals, 17 assists and 20 penalty minutes.

Bradley, 30, played two full terms with the Mariners before this season, scoring 37 goals and 56 assists. Assigned to Syracuse following training camp, he had 11 goals and 18 assists in 31 games for the Blazers.

With defenseman Bob Wall on the injured list, the changes leave San Diego with 17 skaters and two goalies.

15-Man Tag Match Tops Coliseum Card

It'll be a big show Tuesday night.

The weekly wrestling show at the Coliseum in San Diego will feature a 15-man battle royal battling for an $8,000 purse.

The rules of the game make the last man in the ring the winner. A toss-out, a pin or inability to continue makes the contestant loser. Andre, the Giant, 425 pounds of muscle standing 7 feet-5 inches in height is one of the contestants.

There will be five other bouts including two tag matches.

John Tolos and Geg Valentine meet Eduardo Carpentier and Lou Tillet. Pork Chop and S.D. Jones meet the Hollywood Blondes in the match frays.

In regular matches Dino Bravo fights Black Gordman; Magnificent Zulu goes against the Canadian and England's Lord Patrick Roach battles Dennis Stamp.

Entertainment starts at 7:30. $1 off is given to senior citizens and kids.

The Coliseum is at 1435 "E" st.

Nixon-Love Fight Postponed Tijerina on January 17 Card

Irish Mike Nixon, a young Los Angeles middleweight who seems to thrive on controversy, reported that a bruised right hand and a lack of conditioning will keep him from meeting San Diego's Dave Love in a rematch this Friday at the Coliseum.

"The bout will have to be postponed at least two weeks," Nixon told promoter Mickey Davies via telephone. "I need to get into proper shape and I want the hand to be sound."

Following his conversation with Mike, Davies immediately contacted the California Athletic Commission, who ordered a rematch between Nixon and Love after their highly confusing "no decision" contest here in December.

The absence of Nixon means the Coliseum will remain "dark" this Friday, with weekly boxing for 1975 to be ushered in on January 17th. The headliner on that card will be a light heavyweight match between unbeaten Pacific Beach bomber Carlos Tijerina and clever Bobby Stewart of Los Angeles.

Tijerina, who ended 1974 with a bang by embalming "Snake" Hampton in the opening stanza, will be vying for his 11th consecutive pro victory. He was named "Prospect of the Year" in an annual poll of local fans.

Los Alamitos Turnout Gains

LOS ALAMITOS — The third renewal of the $130,000 El Primero Del Ano Derby, the nation's first major quarter horse Derby of the year, and the $10,000 Directors' Handicap will be featured events of the week at Los Alamitos.

The Horsemen's Quarter Horse Racing Association closed out the 1974 segment of its current meeting, which runs through Feb. 8, with attendance and handle up 12 and 14 percent respectively and moves into the final half of the 55-date season this week.

Friday night, many of the outstanding stakes stars in quarter horse racing will be on hand to begin Derby weekend in the inaugural running of the Directors' Handicap, one of the five new stakes events added to the racing program this year by Racing Secretary Donald Smith.

Jack Bell Represents San Diego

SAN DIEGO — Former La Jolla Country Club professional Jack Bell has been designated as its official entry in the Andy Williams San Diego Open golf tournament by the San Diego Chapter of the Southern California District of the PGA.

Bell earned his right to play in the AWSDO on Feb. 13-16 at Torrey Pines golf course by compiling the highest point standings from competitions in San Diego County tournaments during 1974. He is also expected to vie in the Celebrity Pro-Am there on Feb. 12.

A La Jolla resident the past 3½ years, Bell won the San Diego Chapter PGA Match Play championship in 1973, reaching the semifinals in 1974.

He won the Illinois Open in 1959 and 1963 and four times qualified for the U. S. Open Tournament. His best performance in the latter event was in 1964 at the Congressional Club in Washington D.C. when he missed the cut by a single stroke.

Bell joins a group of expected San Diego area entries in the AWSDO headed by Gene Littler and Bill Casper. Others include Phil Rodgers, John Schroeder, Chuck Courtney, Rudy Regalado, Cesar Sanudo, Bill Brask, Lon Hinkle, Greg Trompas, Jack Spradlin, John Jacobs, and Gary McCord.

Pension Increase Is 12% Boost for Vets

President Gerald Ford recently signed into law a change in veterans benefits which became effective January 1. David A. Leslie, San Diego County Service Officer announced that this legislation increases pension benefits for veterans and their survivors by an average 12%. The increase also applies to parents who are entitled to dependency and indemnity compensation.

Leslie stated that the pension law also raised by $400 the annual limitation on outside income for veterans, widows, and children receiving pension. It raised the income limit to $3,000 for single pensioners and $4,200 for those with dependents. Parents receiving dependency indemnity compensation (DIC) will also obtain the $400 increase.

Questions regarding the "old" and "new" law pensions or veterans benefits in general should be directed to a Service Representative at the County Veterans Services Central Office at 1520 State st., San Diego, 236-2223.

Padres First In Winter Free Draft

The San Diego Padres will have the number one choice in the annual Winter Free Agent Draft which is being held today.

The drafting begins at 9:45 a.m. Pacific time with the entire draft being handled by means of a conference call set-up involving the 24 major league clubs and the Commissioner's Office in New York.

"This year's draft should be a pretty good one," commented Padres Director of Player Personnel Bob Fontaine. "We've had good success in the past in this draft and we should do well again."

The previous choices in this particular draft for the Padres have been outfielder John Scott (1970), infielder Dave Hilton and outfielder John Grubb (1971), pitchers Cliff Butcher and Rich Troedson (1972), pitcher Dave Wehrmeister (1973) and infielder Tucker Ashford (1974). Grubb and Toredson were number one picks in the secondary phase.

In the secondary phase, the Padres will be drafting in the 19th position with Philadelphia holding the number one pick. Position in this phase of the draft are selected by lot.

The top selection last season was infielder Roy Smalley, Jr. by the Texas Rangers.

In the regular phase of the draft, the Padres will be immediately followed by California, the Cubs, Detroit, the Mets and Milwaukee. Bringing up the rear are Oakland, Los Angeles and Baltimore.

In the secondary phase, immediately following the Phillies are Detroit, the Cubs, Oakland, Cincinnati, and Texas. Those clubs going after the Padres are the White Sox, Atlanta, Minnesota, Los Angeles and Kansas City.

Dodger Ticket Brochures Ready

The Los Angeles Dodgers' 1975 season ticket brochure is available to persons interested in purchasing season tickets.

The brochure may be obtained by sending a postcard to Walter Nash, Ticket Manager, Los Angeles Dodgers, Los Angeles, CA 90012.

This year's brochure theme is "Dodgers—Your Best Sports Buy in '75."

The Dodgers haven't increased their ticket prices in 18 seasons in Los Angeles.

Season seats are priced at $265 for a box seat and $190 for a reserved seat.

Individual game tickets are priced at $3.50 for a box seat, $2.50 for a reserved seat and $1.50 for general admission (75 cents for children).

The Dodgers will open their 1975 home schedule against Cincinnati on April 14 in a game starting at 5:15 p.m.

There will be 81 games on 80 playing dates.

Globetrotters Back For 2 Arena Games

The world-famous Harlem Globetrotters will make two appearances at the Sports Arena this month — same as they did last January.

They have games with their traveling companions, The Washington Generals, arranged for January 17 and 24, both Friday nights.

Last year the basketball magicians attracted more than 23,000 for two games here and early ticket sales indicate they may draw even more this year. The Trotters haven't been feeling the economy slide, having played to capacity crowds in Philadelphia, Milwaukee, Detroit and Cleveland in recent appearances. On their swing into Central America, they played to turn-away gatherings.

Aside from two newcomers, the same faces will appear in the Trotters' lineup at the Sports Arena. Meadowlark Lemon still is player-coach and continues to be the team's No. 1 clown and laugh getter. He will team up with Freddie "Curly" Neal in some acts that always leave fans holding their sides from so many laughs.

Lemon is very high on his newcomers, Sidney Edwards and Dwaine Dillard. Edwards is a former University of Houston player who passed tests in the Trotters' rookie camp in Los Angeles, then went to Tulsa to see how he fared.

There Edwards injured himself but he was determined to make the grade and realize a lifetime dream. So with his leg taped from thigh to ankle, he worked out in spite of the injury and showed enough to be selected by the Trotters.

Dillard was a high school star in Omaha and later he went on to Eastern Michigan University to earn all-Mid-American Conference honors.

"Fans everywhere seem to like Dillard," Meadowlark said. "He moves like silk and with such lack of effort. He has looked real good off the boards."

Tickets — selling for $6, $5 and $4 — can be purchased at the Sports Arena and all arena ticket outlets. Proceeds will go to the Sigma Delta Chi's scholarship fund.

Condition Books Ready for Mail In Agua Caliente

TIJUANA—Condition books and brochures will be in the mail this week announcing the first Agua Caliente Futurity, a $50,000 event for 2-year-old horses to be held November 16 at the Tijuana track.

Jack P. Meyers, director of racing, in making the announcement said subscriptions to the major event will close March 1.

"We feel certain this race will become a welcome addition to the racing scene on the West Coast," he said. "Caliente has long been noted for its development of young horses and this race over a distance of one mile and 1-16 will add to the growth and prestige of our expanding program."

The event will be at a time of the year when the top 2-year-olds will be stretching out to route races and should attract an excellent field. "It might well be that the winner of our first Futurity event could go on to become a Triple Crown contender the following year," Meyers said.

Racing continues this weekend at Agua Caliente with 11 events Saturday and Sunday with the first post time at noon each day.

Russian Net Star Signs For Michelob Event

And they're well worth a look.

Alex Metreveli will be joined by countryman Teimuraz Kakulia as the Russian entry in the $60,000 Michelob Pro-Celebrity Tennis Classic at La Costa Feb. 17-23.

Metreveli is coming back to La Costa while coming on as a professional of growing accomplishment.

Dark, intense, taciturn, Metreveli reached the quarter finals of both Wimbledon and the U.S. Open tournaments last summer.

"It took some time for me to develop," Metreveli says, "and the tough competition on the WCT (World Championship Tennis) tour certainly has been a big help."

Metreveli, 30, is recognized as the finest player ever produced in the U.S.S.R. At La Costa, he will be joined by Kakulia who has played well enough to be given an opportunity in top pro competition.

Monday - Friday afternoon sessions at the Michelob will start at 1 o'clock, and at noon on Saturday and Sunday. Evening sessions will be held Monday through Friday and will begin at 7 o'clock.

Fifth Fastest Miler To Run

Tony Waldrop, who set a world indoor record of 3:55.0 in the mile in the 1974 San Diego Indoor Games, has confirmed his entry for the 1975 edition of the meet.

The date will be Sautrday night, Feb. 15, at the International Sports Arena.

Waldrop, former North Carolina star now running for the Pacific Coast Club, startled the track world with his 3:55.0 on the super-fast San Diego boards. The time knocked 1-4/10 seconds off the old world indoor mark shared by Jim Ryun and Tom O'Hara.

The Ryun 3:56.4 was made also at San Diego, in 1971.

Waldrop went on from San Diego to have a super season. He lowered his all-time mile to 3:53.2 at the Penn Relays, making him the fifth fastest miler of all-time.

At one stage, the Carolinian ran 10 straight sub-four-minute miles, something never done before.

Fastest Milers of All-Time

1. Jim Ryun, U. S. 1967 3:51.1
2. Ben Jipcho, Kenya 1973 3:52.0
3. Filbert Bayi, Tanzania 1973 3:52.6
4. Kip Keino, Kenya 1967 3:53.1

State Hosts Long Beach In Sat. Test

San Diego State swim team resumes the 1975 Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. season Saturday, hosting Long Beach State in an 11 a.m. meet in Bill Terry Pool on the Aztec campus.

The Aztecs are coming off an impressive win over Northern Colorado last week 78-32 and are 2-0 in dual meets this season. Before the Christmas break San Diego State stopped Fullerton State 73-36 in a PCAA meet.

Long Beach State is 2-1 in dual meets, having lost to USC last weekend and posting wins over Fresno State and BYU.

San Diego State has been getting some top performances from Rick Barr and Bill Morgan. Barr set a school record in the 100-yard backstroke for the second meet in a row against Northern Colorado with a time of 56.6. Morgan won two events against Northern Colorado, winning the 1000-yard freestyle in a lifetime best of 10:15.1 and the 200-yard breaststroke in 2:24.9.

Dave Wilhite and Mickey Gallagher were one-two in the 200-yard freestyle with times of 1:51.2 and 1:54.4 respectively. Greg Orth also swam well, recording a 22.5 in the 50-yard freestyle and a 49.6 in the 100-yard freestyle.

Greyhound Group Makes Moves for Legal Betting

George G. Hardie, president of the Golden State Greyhound Assn., heads a delegation that meets with the Rules Committee of the San Diego City Council Friday in an effort to get the council to endorse the bill legalizing pari-mutuel wagering on greyhound racing in California.

Jack Sherck, leading owner-trainer at Caliente the last two years and Scotty Young, local director for the G.S.G.A., will be in the delegation.

A film on greyhound racing, letters from police chiefs in various cities with dog tracks and a letter from the City of Inglewood, expressing their desire to have a dog track are amongst the exhibits that shall be presented to the committee.

Hardie's group will stress the favorable economic impact on the community a dog track in San Diego would create. They will present a report prepared by A. Alan Post, the State's legislative analyst, in which he states that dog racing could produce $40 million to city, county and state treasuries annually.

"At no cost to the city nor county, and with no strings attached, a dog track in San Diego would produce roughly a million dollars annually to the city and another two million to the county, Young said. "The building of the facility means jobs for the slumping construction industry, it's operation means additional much needed jobs for San Diego. It will provide San Diego an added attraction that will stimulate the tourist industry and provide thrilling entertainment for tourists and residents alike."

The dog racing bill, scheduled to be introduced in the State Assembly by Assemblyman Leon Ralph of Los Angeles, this week, provides for one percent of the pari-mutuel handle to go to the city where the track is located, two percent to the county and three percent to the state. A. Alan Pos estimates that the San Diego track will handle $62 million annually in 100 nights of racing.

Beryl Shipley Q's Coach; Groza Back at Management

Beryl Shipley was announced as the new coach of the Conquistadors at the weekly meeting of the San Diego Sportswriters and Sportscasters Assn. Representing the Q's were Shipley, general manager Alex Groza and club owner Dr. Leonard Bloom.

Shipley, 48, is a veteran of 16 years as head coach of the University of Southwest Louisiana, the same school that gave the Conquistadors guard Bo Lamar.

"I feel the Q's need a full time coach and a full time general manager," said Alex Groza, who has served as coach-general manager since the season opened. "We are all confident "Ship" can make us a winner. I'm eager to put all my efforts back into being the general manager and concentrate on getting fans into the Sports Arena."

"Dr. Bloom and I talked about a lot of people," Groza said, "and we've been talking to Shipley for the last several weeks. There is no doubt in our minds he is the best man for the job."

Beryl Shipley is a native of Kingsport, Tennessee. He took over the coaching position of Southwest Louisiana on June 1, 1957 and held that post through June 30, 1973. During his stay with the school, Shipley's teams compiled an overall record of 296 victories and 129 losses, a percentage of 70 percent, making him the winningest coach in the history of the school. He produced 15 winning season in the 16 years.

Top Ranked Teams

Shipley's teams have been ranked nationally in the top 20 teams on six different occasions. Upon achieving NCAA University Division status in 1971, Shipley led USL to a 25-4 mark in 1971-72 and 24-5 in 1972-73. Both seasons USL competed in the NCAA Mid-West regional playoff tournaments. The school was ranked seventh nationally in 1972-73 and eighth in 1971-72.

"I'm really happy to be here and associated with Dr. Bloom, Alex Groza, the Q's and the city of San Diego," said new coach Shipley. "We're going to prove that we have the nucleus to win, not only our division but also the championship of the ABA. We can do this with the support of the fans of San Diego. They can help us achieve our goal."

I've seen the Q's play several times," continued Shipley. "I know the team can score points. My main concern will be to immediately begin work on the defense. I'll work on developing a hard-nosed style of defense where all five players on the floor will help out."

International Bid

Prior to receiving his call from Groza in regards to coaching the team, Shipley was ready to head to Europe to coach the Spain entry in the new International Basketball Assn. However, the opportunity to coach the Q's caused a quick change in plans.

One of the most popular coaches in Louisiana, Shipley has the reputation of never missing the chance to sell the sport of basketball. He built up the fortunes of Southwestern Louisiana from a very small college team to a nationally ranked club in a matter of years.

Shipley came to USL from Starkville, Mississippi where he had been the head basketball coach at Starkville High for five years. During this time his teams posted a record of 111-26.

While at Starkville, he also picked up his masters in Education at Mississippi State. Shipley is a graduate of Delta State College in Cleveland, Mississippi where he was a two-year basketball letterman.

Prior to Starkville, he spent one year at Morgan City, Miss., where he was the head basketball, baseball and football coach and taught five social studies classes.

Shipley is married (Dolores) and the father of three daughters, Mrs. Malcolm (Marilyn) Broussard (21), Patricia (19) and Amy (15).

The Shipley era officially got underway last night when the Q's

The Ol' $200,000 Comeback Trail

RIVERSIDE — Bobby Allison is coming back again.

It may seem paradoxical to say a man who's won more than $200,000 over the last two years is on the skids, but by Allison's standards, that's where he's been.

The 37-year-old stock car star racer from Hueytown, Ala., has won only four races in the Winston Cup Grand National division since 1972, a year which saw him win 10 races, nearly $300,000 and the American Driver of the Year Award.

"It hasn't been all that much fun the last couple of years, I'll tell you that," he says. "It's never fun if you aren't winning."

Allison will be launching his second major comeback with the January 19 Winston Western 500 at Riverside International Raceway. He will drive Roger Penske's brand new 1975 AMC Matador in the 500-mile road race that traditionally opens the major racing season in America.

Allison has never won the Winston Western 500, but has twice won the 400 mile stock car race held at Riverside each June.

"It's a good course for me," Allison says, "I enjoy road racing and I think the experience of Penske's crew will help set the car up right."

Allison joined Penske several months ago after announcing for the second time in four years he was quitting the Winston Cup circuit. The first time came after the factory withdrawals from stock car racing in 1971.

During the 1960s, Allison had been a regular on the Chyrsler payroll, driving Mario Rossi-prepared Dodges. But, when the factories pulled back, he found himself without a paid seat and tried to campaign his own car.

Going Broke

"I was going broke in record-breaking time," Allison recalls. "There was just no way I could keep a car together without some help, so I decided to give it up and concentrate on short track racing."

Just as Allison announced his retirement, a ride opened with the successful Holman & Moody Ford team and Allison was given that car. He immediately went on a winning streak and ended up the 1971 season with more than $200,000 in his pocket.

The next year, Bobby shifted to Junior Johnson's Chevrolet team where he enjoyed the best year of his career. Then, he tried to go alone again.

In 1973 and 1974, Allison built and campaigned his own Chevrolets. Although he was consistently a front-runner, the car didn't have the reliability of the ones he had driven before and finishing a race became a rarity.

Last July, he said he was quitting again, and again he was heard. Penske, whose regular driver Gary Bettenhausen was injured, signed Allison on a race-to-race basis and finally for the entire 1975 season.

Allison will drive one of Penske's championship cars in several races this year, too, including the three 500 milers at Indianapolis, Ontario and Pocono.

"I think we're going to start winning some races now," Allison says, "and when we start, we're not going to be easy to stop."

Marlowe Inks Volleyball Pact With S.D. Wave

Chris Marlowe, former All-American at San Diego State, is the latest player to sign with the San Diego Wave in the new Winston Volleyball League which opens Jan. 17 in Anaheim.

Marlowe's signing, which brought the Wave's roster to their nine-player limit, came after several weeks of tryouts for spots on the team.

"Competition for playing spots has been extremely high," said Jack Henn, Wave coach, "and there have been players who have failed to make a team who are considered excellent performers. We expected to present the best volleyball talent in the country. From results of the tryouts, we're now sure of that."

The 20-doubleheader Winston League season opens with San Diego vs. Los Angeles and Anaheim vs. Santa Barbara Jan. 17 at the Anaheim Convention Center. Los Angeles meets Santa Monica-Long Beach and San Diego faces Anaheim at San Diego's Community Concourse four nights later, Jan. 21. All matches start at 7:30.

Seven matches will be played in San Diego, five in Los Angeles, five in Anaheim, and three in Long Beach. Season tickets are available by calling the San Diego Community Concourse, 236-6510.

Other players signed by the San Diego team are Mike Cote, Mike Floyd, Jeff Jacobs, Duncan McFarland, Ed Machado, Byron Shewman, Randy Stevenson and Mark Warner.

Leading players on the league's four other teams include Dan Patterson and George Spratt (Los Angeles), Darrell Auxier and Tom Read (Anaheim), Ed Becker and Mike Normand (Santa Monica-Long Beach) and Tim Bonynge and Skip Allen (Santa Barbara).

Woman Lecturer At Golf College

Shirley Spork, a charter member of the LPGA and well-known golf instructor has been named as a guest lecturer at the San Diego Golf Academy in Rancho Santa Fe.

The academy, located at the Whispering Palms Country Club, will offer a specialized two-year curriculum to train students for management careers at golf courses and country clubs. Classes for the first nine-month course are to start Jan. 27.

Spork is teaching professional at Indian Wells Country Club in Palm Springs and also serves the National Golf Foundation as an educational consultant.

A former Woman's National Intercollegiate champion, she was the LPGA's "Teacher of the Year" in 1959 and in 1968 was voted into the Michigan Golf Hall of Fame.

"We are very privileged to have a person of Spork's enormous teaching background and experience as a member of our staff," said Charles Pierce, director of San Diego Golf Academy.

Spork, who also has extensive club mnagement experience, will participate in the instruction of such first year courses as office mnagement, retailing, food services, communication skills, food and beverage purchasing and control. She also will assist in the daily golf instruction provided students.

Pierce said that well-known PGA professionals and managers of major golf clubs throughout the country will serve as staff members or guest lecturers at the school.

New State Policy Calls for Recycling Of Waste Materials

By 1980 more than five million tons of solid waste in California must be recycled or converted to energy, according to policies adopted recently by the Solid Waste Management Board in Sacramento.

California thus becomes the third state, with New York and Oregon, to require mandatory recycling or energy conversion of solid waste material.

"Under this new mandate," said David L. Baker, chairman of the board, "each county must provide for a substantial reduction in the amount of solid wastes going to landfills. Counties must now think in terms of recovering materials from the waste stream."

The board established 1972 at the "base year" and ordered that the amount of business and residential waste in landfills that year be reduced by 25 percent within the next five years. In 1972 each California resident generated nearly a ton of solid waste.

'Employers' Peddle Fake Pipeline Jobs

Consumers are being bilked out of money for the promise of nonexistent jobs in Alaska, the Department of Consumer Affairs reports. Several firms operate under a novelty of names and advertise that they are recruiting employees for jobs as truck drivers and other positions in the construction field in Alaska.

Promises, Promises

The ads which have appeared in various newspapers in California, and other neighboring states, indicate that in addition to an outstanding salary, the employees will earn a daily subsistence, housing allowance, travel expenses and clothing allowance.

Upon responding to the ad, victims are told that they qualify for a specific job—however, they are then told they will not be given the employer's name until they pay a $50 refundable deposit in the form of a cashier's check or money order to "weed out people who are not seriously considering employment."

The jobs are, of course, nonexistent and the victim has the difficult if not impossible task of securing a refund, since the only address he has is a post office box.

Many such hoaxes have been perpetrated nationwide since construction of the Alaska pipeline was announced, the State of Alaska reports.

Real Jobs Scarce

Also, according to Alaskan officials, there are plenty of applicants for the few new jobs that are available and consumers should be extremely cautious in seeking employment in Alaska.

Job seekers should be aware, advises the Consumer Affairs Department, that in no cases do employers charge fees for employment with their firms and that licensed employment agencies must state their full names and addresses in all advertisements and may not charge a fee for any employment until after the employment is accepted.

Anyone who has paid the $50 deposit for a position in Alaska or has any questions concerning licensed employment agencies should write to the Bureau of Employment Agencies, Dept. of Consumer Affairs, 1020 N st., Sacramento 95814.

4 S.D. Doctors Receive March of Dimes Grants

Four San Diego area doctors have been awarded a total of $77,165 in starter research grants by The National Foundation-March of Dimes, according to information received from the San Diego Imperial chapter.

Money from the March of Dimes starter research grants is allotted to assist young M.D.s and Ph.Ds embarking on independent careers in birth defects research after completion of doctoral or post-doctoral training.

Receiving grants were Robert Resnik, M.D., University of California, San Diego; Bert C. Del Villano, Jr., Ph.D., Scripps Clinic and Research Foundation, La Jolla, and William Byrd, Ph.D., and Rudolph Jaenisch, M.D. of the Salk Institute of Biological Studies, La Jolla.

Dr. Resnik will investigate cellular mechanisms by which a particular hormone increases uterine blood supply. Dr. Del Villano will test the theory that viruses transmitted from mother to fetus may be the agent in certain diseases such as skin disorders in humans.

Dr. Byrd's work is in the research of dwarfism and Dr. Jaenisch will research how viruses might interfere with normal development.

Grants are made to initiate creative programs which might not otherwise be available in the community and is part of a birth defects program being done with March of Dimes campaign funds.

The 1975 fund drive continues in San Diego and Imperial Counties through January 31. A Mothers March is scheduled for January 30.

3 Lemon Grove Doctors Earn Family Physician Degree of Fellowship

Three doctors from the Lemon Grove area have been named Fellows of the American Academy of Family Physicians.

The doctors named are: Sam W. Smith, M.D., Raymond I. Downs, M.D., and Edwin C. Grubbs, M.D.

The degree of Fellowship may be attained in either of two ways: successful completion of 600 or more hours of accredited continuing medical study, or achievement of diplomate status in the specialty of family medicine as a result of passing a certifying examination administered by the American Board of Family Practice.

Fellowship entitles the conferees to use the title "Fellow of the American Academy of Family Physicians," or "FAAFP." The degree was conferred recently upon some 3,000 members of the Academy in conjunction with the AAFP's annual convention and scientific assembly in Los Angeles.

Picnics Are Out At Torrey Pines

The first phase of an effort to minimize the impact of human use on Torrey Pines State Reserve went into effect on January 1, State Parks Area Manager Jack Welch announced. Picnicking is no longer permitted along the coastal reserve just north of San Diego.

It was necessary to eliminate the picnic facilities because it was determined that it was detrimental to the national resources. Public code defines a reserve as an area having natural or scenic characteristics of statewide significance which merits its preservation. Development of such sites is limited to facilities which make the area available for public view.

Welch claimed that picnicking in the area denied space to the reserve's native vegetation and had created the proliferation of random trails through adjacent, relatively undisturbed vegetation.

Grove Deputy Solves Burglary

On December 5, Linda N. Lowe, of 9311 San Diego st., Spring Valley, reported the burglary loss of $195 in cash and jewelry.

It took a month of tracking and investigating but Sheriff's Deputy Scott T. Boies of the Sheriff's Lemon Grove office turned in "case closed" report on January 5.

On that day he arrested two 16-year old juveniles; a girl of Spring Valley and a boy of San Diego who not only admitted that they committed the Spring Valley burglary but that they also burglarized a house in San Diego the same day.

They are in juvenile hall.

New Federal Legislation Extends Benefits for Unemployed Workers

Applications are now being accepted from unemployed workers who may be eligible for benefit payments under legislation signed recently by President Ford, according to information received from the California Employment Development Department.

Two bills were signed, one providing extra benefits to insured claimants, the other providing benefits to other jobless workers not eligible under the insurance program. The kick-off date for applying under either program was January 6.

One bill, the Emergency Unemployment Compensation Act, provides up to 13 weeks of additional unemployment insurance payments, making possible a maximum of 52 weeks' payments to an insured jobseeker. The weekly benefits range from $25 to $90 and the number of weeks benefits can be paid depends on the previous earnings of the claimant.

The other bill, the Emergency Jobs and Unemployment Assistance Act, provides for similar benefit payments, up to a maximum of 26 weeks, to unemployed workers not covered by the insurance program. These would primarily be agricultural workers, employes of state and local government and domestics.

Rich Camilli, director of the state's Employment Development Department, which will handle the applications through its unemployment insurance field offices, says the state is preparing to meet an initial surge of 150,000 to 200,000 applicants in the first week. This will be in addition to the 385,000 jobless workers now getting payments.

"An insured claimant's work history and earnings will be fairly easy to check, because we have those records," Camilli said. "But workers with uninsured employment who will be claiming under the new program should bring their records of earnings, employers' names and addresses, social security card number and other documentary evidence to help establish a valid claim."

Arizona Sheriffs Experience Some Good Mazatlan Hospitality

By Jonnie Wilson

You'd think a check from a bonafide law enforcement association would be good just about anywhere. And you'd think, too, that members of such a group would be unlikely suspects for getting gouged.

Well, that all depends.... Take the case of the Arizona Sheriffs and County Attorneys Association which held its annual convention last month in Mazatlan, Mexico. Members of that group ran into a few financial snags south of the border, according to information contained in a Phoenix newspaper article supplied by reader Henry Eckler of Lemon Grove.

Maricopa County Sheriff Paul Blubaum told the Arizona Republic that the manager of the hotel at which the group stayed not only refused to accept the association's check but threatened to impound all the conventioner's luggage if they didn't come up with an alternative method of paying the bill.

That was blow number two for the 50 sheriffs, county attorneys and wives who attended the convention. Blow number one had come moments earlier when they were billed $658 for unexpected extra expenses. Blubaum said the "extras" included bottles of liquor they didn't consume, at $36 a fifth.

Plumbing Bill

He also said one of the group's members had been charged $52 for a sink he allegedly broke, but which was broken when he moved into the room.

"The real gripe was the way we were handled," said Blubaum. "We agreed to pay but they wouldn't accept the association's check. He (the manager) told us American checks were no good in Mexico."

The hotel also refused to convert the sheriffs' pesos into American dollars when the group was ready to leave, Blubaum said.

Double Deal

In what must have been one of the longest check-outs in hotel history, the bill was finally settled by splitting the total and charging half to each of two credit cards. This came after the hotel management had attempted to charge them twice by putting the whole $658 on both of the credit cards, according to Blubaum.

The sheriffs' experience wasn't unique. Other tourists to Mexico have experienced having the "bite" put on them, and this case illustrates that the "long arm of the law" can get bitten just as well as anyone else, he said.

But, perhaps the Mazatlan hotel management bit off a little more than it can chew. Two representatives of the Mexican government visited Blubaum recently in his office and requested a written report of the incident.

So, maybe the sheriffs' hands aren't tied after all. Maybe justice will prevail. But until then, "South of the Border, Down Mexico Way," will likely remain at the bottom of the charts of the Arizona Sheriffs' all-time hit parade.

Mail Bag

Dear Editor:

In behalf of our local Branch of the National Association of Letter Carriers and in the sincere interest of a better Postal Service, we want to state our position concerning certain postal policies. Our purpose is not intended to criticize our Employer but to acquaint the public with truthful facts to correct distortions and misinformation.

First of all, we want our customers to know that the letter carrier delivers each day, all the mail volume which management permits to be delivered. In other words, when the letter carrier leaves early in the morning for his assigned hours of delivery time, he carries with him all of the mail provided by management for delivery that day. The letter carrier is not responsible for any mail delays and is, in fact, very sensitive to any service problems. We are working as a Union for the best possible service policies and are not responsible for the problems which our customers have called to our attention and which are stated below.

11 Million

(1) There is a daily average of more than 11 million pieces of mail which are not deliverable as addressed. Your mail carrier has always forwarded this mail and placed correct addresses on misaddressed pieces. This has permitted prompt delivery of such mail. That job has now been taken from us and the forwarding of mail is now being computerized, thereby causing some serious delays in ultimate delivery.

(2) We do not condone curtailment of any type of mail and feel if our routes were properly adjusted, there would not be any serious delays or late deliveries which are now being experienced.

(3) Our assignments are based on strictly full eight-hour assignments. It is necessary to keep moving without consideration for fatigue, for our entire assignment. We resent being followed and spied upon as we perform our duties and we feel that a time when our country is involved in an energy crisis, the Postal Service should not be burning valuable gasoline in the autos of nonproductive supervision. Supervisors are required to spend at least two hours daily driving around our routes at a cost of millions of dollars to the taxpayer.

Pride in Work

As a union we insist upon better service, we are proud of our past efforts and accomplishments. We are not proud of the fact that our image is now tarnished by deterioration of postal service. We need your support and seek it through a better understanding of the fact that the letter carrier is not responsible for the continuing problems within the Postal Service.

Sea Research Topic Of Museum Films

Oceanographic research in the Antarctic and off the Coast of California and Mexico is the subject of two films being shown at the San Diego Natural History Museum each Monday in January at 12 noon and 3 p.m.

"Project Mohole" reports the construction and testing of the drilling barge, Cuss I, in San Diego and sea trials and experimental drilling tests off the Guadalupe Islands.

The second film, "Time Lapse Studies of Antarctic Ice Floes and Tidal Currents" records the year-long study made by the U.S. Navy at Newcomb Bay.

Both films are from the library of Scripps Institution of Oceanography. Admission is free with the 75-cent museum admission fee.

Three Guns Taken

Larry James Hunter's holiday vacation ended on a rather dismal note.

While he was gone his home at 1990 Madera st., Lemon Grove, was burglarized of three guns.

Missing, he told sheriff's deputies, were a Marlin 22 semi-automatic; a Windhurst 22 bolt action and a High Hunter, 6-shot revolver. The weapons were valued at $145.

RANSACK — The vandals who broke the windows at Vista La Mesa School also ransacked the offices. In addition to pulling all manner of materials from desks and cabinets, the vandals made away with three stop watches, a copying machine and other items not yet identified. They damaged typewriters and painted four-letter vulgarities on the wall, according to Wiley Cornelius, and Dan Heiserman, principal and vice principal of the facility. Early estimates of damage totaled at least $4,000. Dr. Robert Sutton said he will ask the school board to allocate funds for a protective fence at the next board meeting.

DRAFTY— In all, 91 windows were broken. It was a busy night for vandals — suspected of being juveniles—at Vista La Mesa school in Lemon Grove. The school was closed for the holidays but it looked as if a bomb had hit the school when Harold Drew, the custodian, arrived Friday morning. Sheriff's deputies, on the trail of the culprits, said most of the windows appeared to have been broken with a bat or similar instrument, and with rocks. Workmen were still putting glass in when school convened on Monday.

I.P.O. Proposal

be designed for simultaneously phased development along with land use and transportation implementation. The same kind of simultaneous phasing is also desirable for the solid waste disposal systems and for such land use needs as future landfill sites.

Land use patterns and growth must be keyed to protection of beaches and watershed areas, and protection of human life in critical flood plain areas. And throughout the sanitation and flood control system, water and air quality, and natural resource preservation must be considered.

A comprehensive, systems-level plan for sanitation and flood control will complement efforts to establish ongoing, long-range (15-20 years) capital improvements programming and budgeting.

Costs for capital land acquisition for landfill sites, resource recovery plans, sewer construction and waste treatment centers must be included as part of projected capital improvements budget needs to provide necessary and sound financing.

This kind of coordination would best be accomplished within the Integrated Planning Office where it can be related to land use, transportation, environmental management and public facilities planning.

PUBLIC FACILITIES/BUDGETING

Preparing for the future of San Diego County does not stop with consideration of growth and development in the private sector alone. Government itself is a major determinant of land use patterns and so government must be responsible for coordinating its own long-range capital improvement plans with regional planning goals.

Private business and development interests cannot advance their own projects without considering the timing of those services provided by the government. Any businessman knows that thorough planning not only saves time, but also saves money in terms of financing and cost estimates. Thus, private enterprise needs to know what the public facilities schedule will be in order to correlate it with private development plans.

A new subdivision cannot be constructed if there are no roads to provide access to it or sewer lines to transport its wastes away. And in this respect, a comprehensive planning approach to capital improvements and public facilities planning is of immediate benefit to not only county management, but private enterprise.

The components of this kind of planning are scattered through several county departments today; space needs are determined by General Services, Real Property handles land acquisition and leases, park development and planning are monitored by Special Public Services, Public Works has final review of capital project priorities, and funding must be determined by the Fiscal Agency.

Long Range Plan Needed

Nowhere along this line is there an accepted long-range public facilities plan for any period beyond three years, although proposals have been prepared and discarded for plans spanning as many as 20 years.

handle the applications through its unemployment insurance field offices, says the state is preparing to meet an initial surge of 150,000 to 200,000 applicants in the first week. This will be in addition to the 385,000 jobless workers now getting payments.

"We don't expect too many new problems in processing the extra benefits for the insured claimants, but we realize that the benefits for formerly uncovered workers will involve a tremendous increase in workload," he said.

"An insured claimant's work history and earnings will be fairly easy to check, because we have those records. But workers with uninsured employment who will be claiming under the new program should bring their records of earnings, employers' names and addresses, social security card number and other documentary evidence to help establish a valid claim," Camilli added.

"Federal regulations require that we ask a claimant's former employers to verify earnings and reason for layoff in writing", Camilli said. "We're then required to wait seven days for the reply. After this, the claim must be sent to Sacramento for processing through EDD's computer system, then mailed back to the originating field office with payment instructions.

Three Weeks Needed

We estimate that it will take at least three weeks from the time a person files a claim until the first checks are in the claimant's hands."

Camilli said the Department estimated approximately 150,000 claims will be made in the first week, followed by some 5,000 weekly thereafter. Earlier this week lines at some of the six employment offices in San Diego were reported to be "a half block long" at peak periods.

"This will be in addition to the unusually high load of insured claims now being processed by our field offices."

"However, our people will take every possible step to gear up for this monumental task by recalling temporary workers with claims experience, by opening for business earlier or closing later, by using staff from other programs to help, and generally to make the prompt payment of benefits our first priority."

D.A. Issues Gold Fraud Warning

SAN DIEGO — "Last week, the buying and selling of gold bullion became an unregulated business, leaving the consumers at the mercy of any con man who wants to peddle 'gold bricks' or engage in any other outrageous swindles," according to District Attorney Ed Miller.

Miller and 35 other prosecuting attorneys throughout the country called for extreme caution in the buying or investing in gold. The prosecutors are members of the Economic Crime Project, a nationwide network dedicated to stopping white collar crime throughout the United States.

"If the number of criminal and civil actions against fraudulent silver companies during the past few months are any indication, the conditions for massive gold swindles have never been more fortuitous," Miller said.

Many of the victims of these silver frauds, who have lost more than $18 million in one year, were overwhelmed by the sophistication of sales presentations, Miller said.

In one case, he said, a criminal investigator working on suspected silver fraud was even taken in and lost his life savings.

Three Basic Schemes

Miller said there are three basic schemes which the national network of District Attorney's suspects will be utilized to separate the consumer from his money. They are:

One — The gold doesn't exist (PONZI);

Two — It is not pure (GOLD BRICK); and

Three — Misrepresentation of profit (EXCESS FEES).

The first scheme, the "Ponzi," fits comfortably in the unregulated gold market, Miller said. In this operation the victim pays an agent to buy gold that the agent promises to store or to deliver at a later date. Sinct there has been so much publicity already about storage swindles, an obvious alternative for a criminal would be to refuse storage. Instead, he might promise to deliver in say, 30, 60 or 90 days.

Because few gold (or silver) buyers actually want the heavy, bulky, valuable merchandise lying around their home or office, the incentive for storage is high. Impressive-looking warehouse receipts can and have been forged, and storage tanks filled with water have passed for salad oil.

Gold Brick

The "gold brick" scheme is almost too obvious, but has happened recently with the silver frauds, Miller added. From pioneer days to the present, life savings have been turned over in exchange for metal bars that have been stamped with "100% pure" by machines available at local hardware stores. Testing is difficult and expensive, and the purity of the bullion as well as the true weight are significant factors in its value.

The third abuse, Miller said, involves misrepresentations of the profit an investor or buyer can expect. In addition to the mercuric nature of the gold market, many "fees" that come off the front, middle and back of the transaction go unmentioned.

It is for these reasons that the Economic Crime Project urges that buyers of gold bullion deal only with reputable financial institutions or their own financial advisors — that is, with persons and organizations who are themselves subject to governmental regulations in other areas that give assurance of adherence to the ethical principles.

While the greatest potential for fraud in the gold and silver market is where it is traded as a commodity, there are other ways of investing, Miller said.

Way To Go

One of these is the commodity future where a broker serves as the agent. There will be a Commidty Futures Trading Commission by midspring, but it is not now in operation. The Economic Crime Project urges futures market speculators to consult a reputable Futures Commissioned Merchant and keep in mind that this volatile market can fall as well as rise.

Gold and silver bullion can also be bought indirectly as shares of stock in gold mines and refineries and other way stations where the metal is processed and stored. Mutual funds are already cranking up for the purpose of investing in these way stations.

Miller emphasized the importance to gold-buyers of dealing only with respected financial institutions. "You shouldn't part with your money," he said, "until you have in hand a receipt for the metal which your bank guarantees you is genuine.

"You have to know your gold is segregated on deposit for you. If they say they're going to get you a receipt later, tell them to go fly the kite."

While the prosecutors cannot serve as a substitute for a financial advisor, Miller urges people who think they have detected an unethical or illegal merchant of silver and gold to notify his office.

"The courts are burdened with cases of massive fraudulent silver deals. Don't wait until you or your neighbor has been swindled," Miller said.

State Announces Final Plan For Vocational Rehabilitation

The final plan for State enforcement of mandatory vocational rehabilitation has been announced by Roy J. Bell, administrative director of the State Division of Industrial Accidents the plan went into effect January 1.

Vocational rehabilitation, financed by employers through workers' compensation insurance, was authorized by Assembly Bill 760, enacted by the 1974 legislature.

Bell said the plan for activation of AB 760 will make vocational rehabilitation available to California workers who are permanently disabled as a result of job-related accidents and who can qualify under the plan.

The plan sets up a Rehabilitation Bureau in the State Division of Industrial Accidents to administer the program and to determine:

— who is entitled to vocational rehabilitation;

— what is a qualified vocational rehabilitation program;

— what are the specific benefits under such a program.

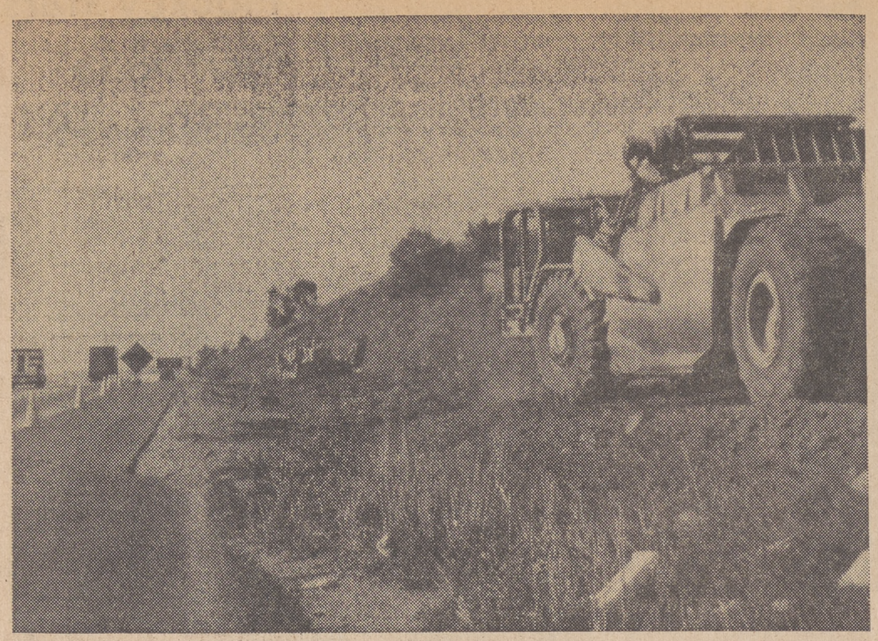
One important feature of the plan requires employers to report to the Rehabilitation Bureau on a permanently disabled worker as soon as the employer has knowledge of the worker's need for rehabilitation, or no later than 120 days after the worker's disability began.

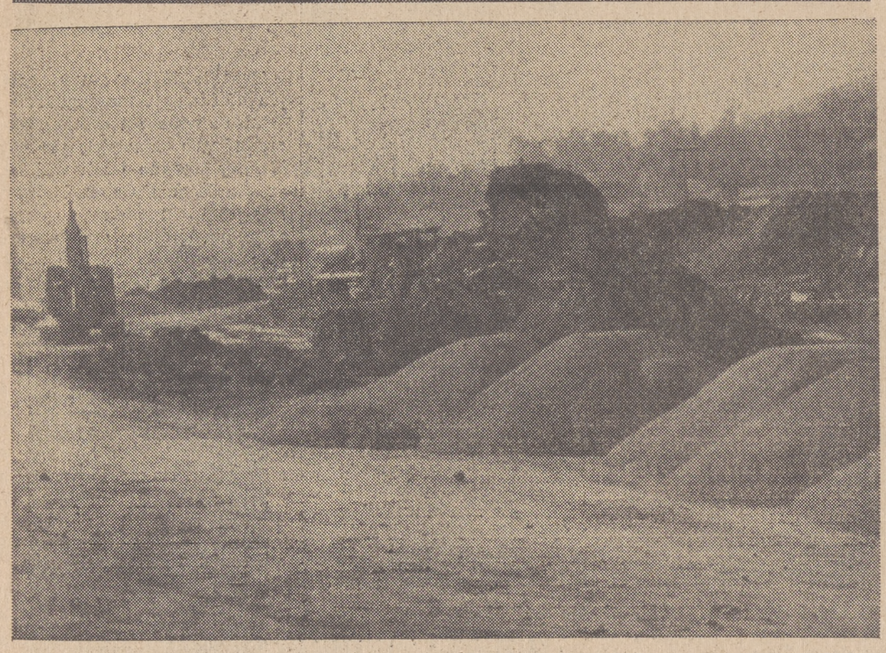
Workers who are judged qualified for benefits under the vocational rehabilitation program will receive temporary disability benefits up to a maximum of $119 a week. Reimbursement for additional living expenses associated with rehabilitation will include those services judged "reasonably necessary to restore a qualified injured worker to suitable, gainful employment." Services could include vocational evaluation, counseling, retraining, job placement assistance, medical, as well as other benefits judged necessary.

The plan also provides for appeals by workers dissatisfied with the benefits approved by the Rehabilitation Bureau.

Bell said the plan evolved from proposals submitted to him by an advisory committee of labor and management representatives, and testimony taken during two public hearings held in Los Angeles and San Francisco last month.

The first year of mandatory vocational rehabilitation could cost employers up to $18 million in insurance premiums, according to preliminary estimates.





HIGHWAY CHANGES — Construction is heavily in progress at two local sections of S.R. 94. Above, giant earthmoving equipment regrades the future site of the Lemon Grove avenue bridge, an interchange that creates a new street which replaces what is now Costa Bella ave. Below, more earthmovers perform grading on the revamping of the Campo rd. freeway exit east of the Lemon Grove exit construction. The grading and drainage work began in mid-December. Presently, bridge footings are being cast at the bridge site. The bridge, which promises to make the Lemon Grove business area more accessible from the freeway, is expected to be completed in a year.

S.D. Gas & Electric To Add 3 New Turbines

LOS ANGELES — The California Public Utilities Commission has granted San Diego Gas & Electric authority to construct three gas turbine units at its South Bay plant in Chula Vista.

The units will be operated approximately three hours a day Monday through Friday during the daily peak in the early evening hours.

The PUC said the units are the only feasible alternative for insuring present and future reliable, economic electric service.

Cost of the units will be about $16,245,000.

The PUC said the units "will not produce an unreasonable burden on natural resources, aesthetics of the area . . . public health and safety, air and water quality in the vicinity, parks, recreation and scenic areas, historic sites and buildings, or archeological sites."

The project had prior approval from the San Diego County Air Pollution Control District and the San Diego Coast Regional Commission.

Plans are under way for a banquet honoring Gehres for his 12½ years of service to the Republican party. The affair will be a Valentine Dinner at Vacation Village. Madeline Staryat, of 7109 Rosemary lane, Lemon Grove, told sheriff's deputies that her house has been burglarized during her vacation trip which ended early last week.

The burglar entered her residence through a bathroom window and took objects she valued at $1,167.

Among missing items were a jade necklace; a diamond necklace; a yellow gold pin and a crystal necklace.

Also a silver pin and matching earrings; a gold cross; gold cuff links; costume jewelry and a digital clock.

Classes are open to interested persons of all ages and the only costs involved are for materials used by the students.

The first class is a 12-lesson Boating Safety and Seamanship class at the Emergency Services Building, John Tower ave., Gillespie Field in Santee. Sessions begin January 13 at 7:30 p.m.

A 7-lesson Boating Safety and Basic Sail Class begins February 5 at Bldg. 94 of the Naval Training Center, San Diego, 7:30 p.m.

State Ups Tax Value Of Employee Meals

Increases in the taxable value of meals furnished employees by their employers were announced recently by Vincent Silva, manager of the employment tax office in San Diego.

New rates went into effect January 1.

The value change was specified in regulations adopted by the State Department of Benefit Payments on November 25. Controlling regulations call for a value modification whenever the fiscal year average of retail food prices in California cities varies by ten percent or more from the same average for fiscal year 1968-69.

Cost - of - living indexes furnished by the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics show an increase of 40.7 percent from 1968-69 to 1973-74.

The new scale of taxable value allows $2.25 for three daily meals and $.85 for a meal not identifiable as either breakfast, lunch or dinner.

Losses Indicate Mowing Time Nears

William F. Hickey of 7853 Nichals in Lemon Grove was burglarized of tools and a lawn mower, all, he said, valued at $290. He was away from his home when the loss occurred he told sheriff's deputies last week.

While over in Spring Valley John Allen Eagleton, of 624 Galapago, told officers his loss of a McClain power mower and a King O Lawn edger produced a loss to him of $700.

Police said there was no door on the carport from which the equipment was taken and it was easily accesible.

Referee Tests Readied For Inheritance Tax Posts

SACRAMENTO — A statewide examination to qualify candidates for possible future appointments as Inheritance Tax Referees will be given February 15, by the State Personnel Board, State Controller-Elect Kenneth Cory announced.

The primary need for the examination is to establish qualified candidates in counties which now have fewer than three qualified candidates available for consideration when vacancies occur. The examination also will be open to applicants in the counties which now have three or more qualified candidates.

The examination will comply with State law which specifies qualifications of candidates for appointment as inheritance tax referees, establishes four-year terms for those appointed, prohibits contributions to a campaign for State Controller by inheritance tax referees or applicants, and limits their contributions to other candidates.

Qualification extends for five years from the date of the examination, including examinations given in 1970, 1972 and 1973.

Qualification has now expired for those candidates designated through a 1967 examination. Those persons may seek re-qualification through the new examination.

The three-hour written examination will be given in San Diego, Los Angeles and 8 other cities. Test locations may be limited or extended as the number of applicants or conditions warrant.

The examination will cover four general subject areas — appraisal of real property, appraisal of tangible and intangible personal property, analytical and reasoning ability, and inheritance tax law and procedures.

Copies of the official examination announcement and application forms may be obtained from any State Personnel Board office and from the State Controller, P.O. Box 1019, Sacramento 95805.

Applications must be postmarked not later than January 24, accompanied by the $15 application fee fixed by the State Personnel Board.

The film will be used County-wide to recruit new Cubs and Leaders to Scouting.

Teacher is Loser

Michael Robert Slavit, a teacher at Monte Vista High school told sheriff's deputies that the wheel covers and chrome decorations on the wheels of his 1972 Vega had been removed while he was pursuing his teaching duties at the school.

He said Monday, that the loss amounted to $100.00
